DETAILED ACTION

1. Prosecution is hereby reopened in view of the following new rejections:

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. Claim 4 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. The meaning and scope of this claim are unclear. There appears to be a word or words missing.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

4. Claims 1-6 and 8-10, 15 and 16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Brumlik 4,001,366. The reference discloses an oriented thermoplastic hook strand 20 in Figure 6b having discrete hook elements extending at an angle of 90 degrees from the longitudinal direction of the strand; see column 4, lines 24-48, column 8, lines 3-12 and column 9, lines 3-36. The net-shaped base shown in Figure 6b contains what may be considered a network of "strands". The particularly claimed process steps do not add any structurally distinguishing features to the final product and do not produce an article with any structural features that distinguish over the prior art article.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claims 11-14 and 17-19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Brumlik ('366). The reference discloses the invention substantially as claimed, namely an oriented thermoplastic hook strand 20 in Figure 6b having discrete hook elements extending at an angle of 90 degrees from the longitudinal direction of the strand; see column 4, lines 24-48, column 8, lines 3-12 and column 9, lines 3-36. The particularly claimed process steps do not add any structurally distinguishing features to the final product and do not produce an article with any structural features that distinguish over the prior art article. However, the reference does not teach the claimed size of the spacing of the hooks or the base thickness. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to adjust the spacing of the hooks and thickness of the base to any specific size depending on the desired structure properties for a particular end use. Also, a change in size is generally recognized to be within the purview of one of ordinary skill in the art. Concerning claim 17, the reference discloses a non-planar base at column 9, lines 3-7.

Allowable Subject Matter

7. Claim 7 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
